PURPOSE

This policy document and application provides guidelines on appropriate use of the BOINZ name and logos when associated with the granting of membership, and promotional rights in relation to events and engagements.

PROCEDURE

Any Individual and/or organisation that wishes to use BOINZ Logo must seek permission from the Institute before any material is published.

Any promotional material and/or signage must be signed off by the Building Officials Institute of New Zealand's Marketing Manager.

The first step in applying to use the BOINZ logo is to ensure you believe you would qualify to use the logo (see policies and guidelines below). Should you believe you have a case you must email your request to marketing@boinz.org.nz. Your application will then be reviewed and you may be contacted for further information. Please allow up to fourteen (14) business days for a temporary approval from the Chief Executive, or three to four months for a term based approval from the Board.

The BOINZ logo is used for the official identification of the Institute.

The style of the brand and logos and their agreed representation is defined by the Institute's Board, and as such, cannot be modified or altered from the published formats.

The Institute also has brand identification for its various departments, including The Training Academy, HR Division, and Accredited Building Surveyors. Members who achieve Accreditation, as an Accredited Building Surveyor, have specific entitlement to use the Accredited logo upon gaining Accredited status. Accredited logo use is applied for separately.

Logo files are available in several formats, and can be provided upon approval via our Brand Guidelines.

For more information on these policies and guidelines or approval and permissions, please contact marketing@boinz.org.nz
